HISTORY

OF THE

Real Daughters of the American Revolution

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was formally organized in Washington, D. C., October 11, 1890. The first President General was Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, wife of the President of the United States.

The Society was one direct result of the great wave of patriotism that preceded the World's Columbian Exposition, 1892-93.

The objects of the Society, as set forth in the Constitution, are:

(1) "To perpetuate the memory of the spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence by the acquisition and protection of historic spots, and the erection of monuments; by the encouragement of historical research in relation to the Revolution, and the publication of its results; by the preservation of documents and relics, and of the records of the individual services of Revolutionary soldiers and patriots, and by the celebrations of all patriotic anniversaries.

(2) "To carry out the injunction of Washington in his Farewell Address to the American people, 'to promote, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge,' thus developing an enlightened public opinion, and affording to young and old such advantages as shall develop in them the largest capacity for performing the duties of American citizens.

(3) "To cherish, maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom, to foster true patriotism and love of country, and to aid in securing for mankind all the blessings of liberty."

The following section defines eligibility:

"Any woman may be eligible for membership who is of the age of eighteen years, and who is descended from a man or woman who, with unflinching loyalty, rendered material aid to the cause of independence; from a recognized patriot, a soldier or sailor or civil officer in one of the several Colonies or States, or of the United Colonies or States; provided that the applicant be acceptable to the Society."

The first work suggested for the young society was the completion of the monument to Mary Ball Washington, mother of General George Washington, at Fredericksburg, Va., which had been left in an unfinished condition for many years. A resolution embodying this suggestion was adopted at the meeting for organization. (The stately monument was unveiled May 10, 1894, after the Daughters of the American Revolution had raised nearly $10,000 towards the fulfillment of the purpose.)

At the same meeting, a resolution was also adopted providing for an exhibit of Colonial and Revolutionary relics at the World's Fair in Chicago, 1892-93. (This project was also carried out. The exhibit was under the special care of the Chicago Chapter, D. A. R., which had been formed in the meantime. Local Chapters were speedily organized, all over the country.)

At the meeting of the Society held December 11, 1890, it was stated that there were still living, a number of widows of Revolutionary heroes; also, two daughters of Revolutionary heroes. It was agreed by the Society that they should be admitted as life members of the Society. This was the same meeting at which it was announced that the formal organization of the Society was now complete.

Following are the names of the Revolutionary widows living in 1890, as found on the United States pension list, and read at the meeting:

Lovey Aldrich, Jackson, Michigan, age 90 years, widow of Caleb Aldrich, N. H. and R. I. troops.

Elizabeth Betz, Harrisburg, Pa., age 87, widow of Peter Betz, Pa. troops.

Mary Brown, Knoxville, Tenn., age 85, widow of Joseph Brown, Pa. troops.

Susan Curtis, Topsham, Me., age 98, widow of Caleb Curtis, Mass. troops.

Sarah Dabney, Barry, Ill., age 90, widow of John Q. Dabney, Va. troops.

Esther S. Damon, Plymouth Union, Vt., age 76, widow of Noah Damon, Mass. troops.

Jane Denmore, Broadalbin, N. Y., age 89, widow of James Merrill, Conn. troops.

Nancy A. Green, Clay City, Ind., age 72, widow of Elias Edens, S. C. troops.

Nancy Gregg, Colletsville, N. C., age 79, widow of William Gregg, Va. troops.

Jane Harbison, Pinckneyville, Ill., aged 84, widow of James Harbison, S. C. troops.

Sally Heath, Titusville, Ky., age 86, widow of William Heath, N. C. troops.

Nancy Jones, Jonesborough, Tenn., age 76, widow of Darling Jones, N. C. troops.

Lucy Morse, East Barnard, Vt., age 80, widow of Abiel Morse, Conn. troops.

Rebecca Mayo, Newbern, Va., age 77, widow of Stephen Mayo, Va. troops.

Olive C. Morton, Elva, Mich., age 79, widow of Peter Tuman, N. Y. troops.

Nancy Rains, Canter's Furnace, Tenn., age 98, widow of John Rains, Va. troops.

Patty Richardson, East Bethel, Vt., age 89, widow of Godfrey Richardson, N. Y. troops.

Nancy Robertson, Shady Grove, Tenn., age 87, widow of William Robertson, Va. troops.

Meridy Smith, Newnan, Ga., age 85, widow of William Smith, N. C. troops.

Mary Snead, Parksley, Va., age 74, widow of Bowdoin Snead, Va. troops.

Asenath Turner, Manchester, N. Y., age 86, widow of Samuel Durham, Conn. troops.

Nancy Weatherman, Lineback, N. C., age 80, widow of Robert Glascock, Va. troops.

Anna Maria Young, Easton, Pa., age 98, widow of Jacob Young, Pa. troops.

It is evident that the above-named Revolutionary widows were much younger than their husbands, and had no personal recollections of the great conflict. Nevertheless, these same venerable women did represent the first generation of American patriots, and were, to use an old-fashioned word, real "relicts." Moreover, five of them were born in the eighteenth century, which was the Revolutionary century; and three of them came into the world before Washington died.

Among the last survivors of the Revolutionary widows, was Mrs. Caleb Aldrich. She was born in 1799; and in 1897, was residing in New Hampshire. The local Chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution gave a reception in her honor that year. Her husband had enlisted from Westmoreland, N. H., at the age of 16, and served throughout the war. He was 36 years her senior. Soon after the reception, Mrs. Aldrich went to California, and died at the residence of her son, in Los Angeles.

The last survivor of all was Mrs. Esther Sumner Damon, of Plymouth Union, Vt. She was born in 1814, and in early life was a teacher. At the age of 21, she married a Revolutionary veteran, Noah Damon, then past 70. Mrs. Damon outlived all her immediate family. She owned her house, but had no income, except the small pension allowed her by the United States Government. She was made a member of Palestrello Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and presented with the "Daughters' gold spoon." All the Chapters in Vermont united to care for her declining years. Mrs. Damon is described as an estimable woman and a sincere Christian. She died September, 1906. Had she not been the widow of a Revolutionary soldier, she would still have been eligible to membership in the National Society, as she was the granddaughter of a Revolutionary soldier.

It is said that there were, also, several Revolutionary widows living in the United States as late as 1900, who never had their names on the United States pension rolls.

At the meeting of the Society held December 11, 1890, "two daughters of Revolutionary heroes" were mentioned. But it was soon discovered that there were not only two, but many daughters of Revolutionary heroes still living. Between December, 1890, and July, 1911, more than 700 "Real Daughters" have been admitted to membership in the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. A "Real Daughter" is one whose father or mother rendered material aid to the cause of American independence.

Now, it will be seen that the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was founded just in the nick of time. Suppose it had been founded in 1783, just after peace was declared with England. Should we not have considered it remarkable that, in 1890, there were 23 Revolutionary widows, and 700 or more daughters surviving, members of the Society who represented the first and second generations of American patriotism? Well, that really was the case, even with the date of the founding delayed. The Society not only stands where it might have stood; but is also made stronger by the addition of the enthusiastic and energetic third and fourth generations.

At first thought, it seems surprising that there were so many "Real Daughters" living in 1890, or later. But a little investigation will dispel some of the surprise.

To begin with, quite a large number of "Real Daughters" themselves attained an advanced age. Fully 25 or more reached the century mark; while so many passed their ninetieth birthday that anything less seems like youth.

Mrs. Sarah Van Arsdale Van Nostrand, of Millstone, N. J., was born in 1788, only five years after the Treaty of Peace. She was admitted to membership in the National Society, D. A. R., at the age of 105.

Mrs. Sarah Doran Terry, of Philadelphia, was born in 1792. She was admitted to membership at the age of 106, and died two years later, aged 108.

Mrs. Salome S. Sellers, of Deer Island, Me., was admitted in 1909, aged 108, and died soon after.

Again, very many of the Revolutionary patriots reached an advanced age. Following are well-known instances:

David Kimmison, the last survivor of the "Boston Tea Party," died in Chicago, February 24, 1851, aged 115 years.

Rev. Daniel Waldo, born at Windham, Conn., September 10, 1762; died at Syracuse, N. Y., July 30, 1864. At the age of 93, he was chaplain of the National House of Representatives. In his youth he was a Revolutionary soldier, and was captured by the British and imprisoned in the old "Sugar House," New York.

Lemuel Cook died at Clarendon, Orleans County, N. Y., May 20, 1866, aged 102. William Hutchings died May 2, 1866, at Castine, Me., aged 102. John F. Gray died at Brookfield, O., March 29, 1868, aged 105 years. Daniel F. Bakeman died at Fredonia, N. Y., April 5, 1869, aged 109 years. These four were the last survivors of the Continental Army, whose names were on the United States pension rolls. It is said that several old militiamen, who never applied for pensions, died as late as 1870.

* * * * *

But not all the "Real Daughters" themselves, were, or are, very old. Many, if not most of them, are younger children of second and third wives, and last survivors of families of fifteen or twenty.

It is well known that, during the Revolutionary War (and other wars) the ranks of privates were largely made up of boys from 15 to 18 years of age. Not all fell in battle, and many married late in life.

It is also known that drummers, fifers, dispatch carriers, aids, "powder monkeys," wagon boys, cabin boys, etc., rendered real service when very young.

From various accounts, it is learned that it was quite a common practice for a Revolutionary officer to take his small son to camp with him, to serve in various capacities. In several cases, these officers had their sons enrolled as "waiters" or "body servants" to themselves. Not through any desire to needlessly risk young lives. According to one writer, these officers knew that it would be impossible to keep growing boys out of the army, and preferred to have their own boys under their own eyes. The story is told of one officer who took his two older sons with him and left the youngest at home. A few days later, a new company marched into camp. Great was this same officer's surprise to see his own smallest son leading the way as drummer!

Now, in this great National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the least Revolutionary service is recognized and accepted, provided it was loyal service and can be proved. The descendant of the smallest drummer may aspire to be President General.

The youngest patriots enrolled are Jacob W. Petry, of New York, who, at the age of 7, carried intelligence to Fort Dayton, of a projected Indian uprising; and Isaac Wheeler, Jr., of Connecticut, who, at the age of 8, served as a fifer.

The youngest "Real Daughter" admitted to membership in the National Society, up to 1900, was Mrs. Sarah Knight Keen, of Watsontown, Pa., wife of Major F. A. Keen. Mrs. Keen entered the Society at the age of 52. She was the daughter of Richard Knight, of Pennsylvania (1767-1850), who had served as a Revolutionary drummer at the age of 11. His daughter Sarah was the youngest child of his third wife, and was born in 1846, when he, himself, was 79 years old. Mrs. Keen's older sister, Mrs. Annie Knight Gregory, of Selinsgrove, Pa., entered the Society at the age of 54. Mrs. Keen died in 1906, aged 60.

Since the admission of Mrs. Gregory and Mrs. Keen, three sisters, daughters of Thomas Clapp, of Massachusetts, have been admitted. He was born 1763; died 1851. In March, 1845, he married his second wife, Aurelia Allen; had three daughters, as follows: Aurelia, born December 5, 1845; Ardella, born February, 1847; Mary Ann, born December 28, 1851. The mother, Aurelia Allen Clapp, was born 1816, and died in 1900, and was thus one of the surviving Revolutionary widows whose names were not on the United States pension rolls. Mary Ann, the youngest daughter, was born the same year that her father died. He was then 88 years old, and his wife 35.

Aurelia is Mrs. Alexander MacDonald, Ardella is Mrs. Eben Hatch, and Mary Ann is Mrs. George H. Scott. They reside at Campello, Mass.

Many of the younger "Real Daughters" are still in active life, and some of them hold office in the National Society and elsewhere.

But not all "Real Daughters" are descended from small patriots. Every grade of service is represented, from "signer of the Declaration of Independence" down. Miss Emily Louise Gerry, last surviving child of Elbridge Gerry, joined the National Society at the age of 92.

After the surprise of discovering that there were so many "Real Daughters" living, came another surprise. That was, that there were so many in the Western States. But this seemingly strange circumstance is easily explained. These Western "Real Daughters" are the survivors of the early pioneer families. The Middle West was almost entirely built up by Revolutionary soldiers. The soldiers' bounty lands were located between the Allegheny Mountain chains and the Mississippi River; and this region is literally dotted with Revolutionary soldiers' graves. The surviving "Daughters" can tell thrilling tales of long and tedious journeys, of hardships and privations, and of encounters with wild beasts and Indians. Some of these "real daughters," living in "Woman Suffrage States," are legal voters. Their own fathers fought to uphold the principles that "taxation without representation is tyranny," and "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

* * * * *

Soon after the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was organized, dissensions arose within. The result was a movement of the character popularly known as "a split." A small party went off and organized another "Society"—which was named "The General Society of the Daughters of the Revolution" (since known as the "D. R.," as distinguished from the original society of the "D. A. R."). This seems particularly unfortunate, inasmuch as the aims of the two societies are identical; as are, also, their requirements.

Still, it must be said for the small D. R. Society, that its members have done good work. And among its best endeavors and achievements, may be mentioned, care for "Real Daughters." At a very early date in its history, this Society publicly declared that it "constituted all Real or original Daughters, life members of the Society, and presented them with badge and certificate."

Following is a list of "Real Daughters" enrolled among the D. R. up to 1906, with the names of fathers, etc. Each Daughter's name is preceded by her National number:

361. Mrs. Lucy Wallace Cummings, Massachusetts, daughter of Robert Thorndike, Mass. (1761-1843.) Served at the Lexington Alarm, Bunker Hill and throughout the war.

372. Mrs. Caroline Long Bartlett (widow of Hon. Bailey Bartlett), Orange, N. J.; born 1804, youngest of thirteen children of Moses Long (1760-1848), of Hopkinton, N. H. Served in Capt. Carr's Company, 9th Mass. Regt. Mrs. Bartlett is a sister of Col. Stephen N. Long, the Western explorer, who discovered Long's Peak.

385. Mrs. Mary Turner Potter Rogers, New Jersey, daughter of Paul Potter, of Potter's Creek, N. J. Private in Monmouth County Militia.

721. Mrs. Mercy Foster Clark, New Jersey, widow of James Clark; daughter of Joseph Foster, Conn. 3d Regt., Conn. Line, under Col. Samuel Wyllys, 1780.

746. Mrs. Christina Lawrentz Graham (Mrs. Wm.). Daughter of Wendell Lawrentz, of Maryland (1757-1823). Private, under Captains Philip Craybill and Christopher Meyers, Col. Housseger's Regt., Maryland Militia. Served three years; was at Trenton, Princeton, Brandywine, Germantown and Monmouth. Mrs. Graham served as a volunteer nurse during the Civil War. She died in Baltimore, March 30, 1896.

1311. Mrs. Nancy E. Baker Parker, Salem, Mass. Admitted October 11, 1895. Daughter of Jeremiah Baker.

2369. Miss Mary Anne Davis, Wheeling, W. Va. Admitted August 2, 1897. Born at St. Clairsville, O., July 3, 1824. Daughter of Marmaduke Stevenson Davis, and his second wife, both born in Pennsylvania. Marmaduke S. Davis served in Maryland and Virginia. Miss Davis was educated at Brooks' Seminary. Began to teach in the Wheeling schools in 1850, and taught forty-five years. Died December, 1897.

2716. Mrs. Harriet Newell McAllister Harris, Somerville, Mass. Admitted April 18, 1898. Daughter of Richard McAllister.
2786. Mrs. Sarah Marston Lamprey (born 1811), Malden, Mass. Admitted June 30, 1898. Daughter of Jonathan Marston, of New Hampshire (born 1761), and Mary Philbrick, his wife.
2787. Mrs. Lucy T. Stickney Pillsbury, Georgetown, Mass. Admitted June 30, 1898. Daughter of Paul Stickney (born 1745), and his second wife, Betsy Cheney (married 1811.)
2841. Mrs. Charlotte Fuller Burnham, Ipswich, Mass. Admitted October 17, 1898. Widow of Abraham Burnham. Daughter of Nathaniel Fuller.
2847. Mrs. Martha Hazlewood Hord, Louisville, Ky. Daughter of Luke Hazlewood and Nancy Bolton, his wife. Luke Hazlewood served in Pennsylvania, and after the war settled in Kentucky.
2848. Mrs. Sarah Goodrich Maholm, Shelbyville, Ind. Admitted November 21, 1898. Daughter of Nathan Goodrich.
2889. Miss Elizabeth Gage Lambert, Rowley, Mass. Admitted December 19, 1898. Daughter of Jonathan Lambert.
2890. Miss Mehetable Lambert, Rowley, Mass. Admitted December 19, 1898. Daughter of Jonathan Lambert.
2891. Miss Mary Lambert, Rowley, Mass. Admitted December 19, 1898. Daughter of Jonathan Lambert.
2925. Mrs. Elizabeth Buford Parkes, Richmond, Ky. Daughter of John Buford.
3009. Mrs. Sophia Van Dolson Andrews, Des Moines, Ia. Daughter of John Van Dolson.
3027. Mrs. Statira Nutt Christie (1809-1900), Lock Haven, Pa. Daughter of William Nutt and Lucy Avery, his wife.
3033. Mrs. Hannah Philips Eaches, Phoenixville, Pa. Daughter of Josiah Philips, of Pennsylvania.
3059. Miss Susanna Chadwick, Emporium, Pa. Daughter of Col. Elihu Chadwick, of New Jersey.

3369. Mrs. Eunice Lindsay Bedell, Mount Carmel, Ill. Born 1833 in Indiana. Daughter of William Lindsay, of Virginia, and Clarissa Pryor, his wife.

3410. Mrs. Harriet S. Elkins Cady, Westboro, Mass. Born 1825. Daughter of Col. Jonathan Elkins, and Eunice S. Sprague, his wife.

3583. Mrs. Josephine Davis Wodeski, Lincoln, Ill. Born 1830. Daughter of Samuel Davis, of Maryland, and Margaret Barrett, his wife.

4308. Mrs. Catharine Dwinall, Everett, Mass. Daughter of Ensign Simeon Tibbetts, of Maine.

4389. Mrs. Phoebe M. Gainfort, Port Jervis, N. Y. Born 1805. Daughter of Jabez Rockwell, Connecticut, and Elizabeth Mulford, his wife.

Mrs. Nancy Clarke Chamberlain, Ohio. Born 1815. Daughter of ——— Compton, who was with Washington at Valley Forge.

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution early adopted a conciliatory attitude. The Society stands ready to receive any D. R. on records already filed. It has declared a willingness to recognize all D. R. Chapters. This being the case, it is quite possible that all D. R. documents may yet be filed in the magnificent D. A. R. building, the Continental Memorial Hall, Washington, D. C. Then the names of the "Real Daughters" belonging to the D. R. will be placed with those belonging to the D. A. R.

Some of the above-named Daughters of the Revolution are also members of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Lydia Morrison Bennett died in Acton, New Hampshire, April 17, 1897, aged 97 years and 4 months. She was the daughter of David Morrison, who fought under General Stark in the Revolution. Her husband, Benjamin Bennett, served in the War of 1812; and her son, Lieutenant John S. Bennett, in the Civil War. Mrs. Bennett was admitted to membership in the New Hampshire Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, in 1889, before there was any D. A. R. Society. She was elected one of the Vice Presidents, and held the office up to the time of her death.

Mrs. Hannah Lyons, of Marblehead, Mass., was living in June, 1897. She was the daughter of John Russell, of Massachusetts, and was among those "Real Daughters" whose names were on the U. S. Pension Rolls.

* * * * *

Soon after the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was organized, a number of "Real Daughters" were discovered in poor-houses. In every such case, the local Chapter, or Chapters, placed the desolate, deserving survivor of a good Revolutionary family in a comfortable home. And, in several such cases, pensions for the "Real Daughters" were secured from the U. S. Government.

February 22, 1895, on motion of Mrs. Shippen, of New Jersey, the National Board voted to present to every "Real Daughter" a gold souvenir spoon. Every "Real Daughter" has received such a spoon if she lived long enough after her application-papers were passed upon. In 1897 Mrs. Mary J. Seymour, then Registrar General of the National Society, D. A. R., began a collection of photographs and autograph letters of the "Real Daughters" themselves, and in 1902, presented the album to the Continental Congress. The work of collecting was continued by Mrs. Gertrude B. Darwin.

February 23, 1898, on motion of Mrs. Amos G. Draper, the Continental Congress voted to remit the dues of all "Real Daughters." The consensus of opinion was that it was honor enough to the National Society, D. A. R., to have the "Real Daughters" admitted.

At the Tenth Continental Congress of the National Society, D. A. R., held in Washington, D. C., February, 1901, on motion of Mrs. Laura Wentworth Fowler, of Dedham, Mass., Regent of Old South Chapter, a resolution was passed "authorizing the Treasurer of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution to appropriate money for the support of those 'Real Daughters' who are in need." Since then, the National Society has paid out hundreds of dollars to "Real Daughters" in distress.

In 1900 Mrs. William Lawson Peel, of the Joseph Habersham Chapter, D. A. R., Atlanta, Ga., conceived the idea that all "Real Daughters" then living should be located and gathered into the National Society, regardless of their place of residence. In consequence, this Chapter secured the admission of more than 30 "Real Daughters," representing a dozen different States.

At the Twelfth Continental Congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held in Washington, D. C., February, 1903, the present writer had the honor and pleasure of bringing forward the following resolution:

"All Daughters of Revolutionary patriots whose claims have been verified by the registrar general, but who have died before their names could be presented to the board for confirmation shall be put upon the roll of honor."

This resolution was endorsed by Miss Mary Desha, Mrs. Caleb Churchman, Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, Miss Susan Riviere Hetzel, Miss Susan Carpenter Frazer, Mrs. Florence Gray Estey, Mrs. Harriet P. Simpson, Mrs. Amos G. Draper.

The motion was seconded and carried.

In accordance therewith the following names of "Real Daughters" were placed upon the roll of honor:

Mrs. Sarah Halsey Baker, Wyoming, Ohio. See National number, 192.

Mrs. Lucy Parlin, "Judge's Cave," near New Haven, Conn. (Mrs. Parlin, daughter of Elijah Royce and Emelia Johnson, his wife. Elijah Royce was born in Wallingford, 1756; died in Wolcott, Conn., 1834. Enlisted, 1775; was at Monmouth and Yorktown. An invalid pensioner in New Haven Co., 1784. See National Number, 19680, in "D. A. R. Lineage Book," Vol. XX., and National Number, 21,877, in "Lineage Book," Vol. XXII.)

Mrs. Jane Stevenson Dallas, Philadelphia. (Born in Pittsburgh, 1802; married 1822, to Judge T. Dallas, son of Alexander Dallas. Daughter of Gen. John Wilkins, Jr., Quartermaster General in 1796; and Catherine Stevenson, his wife. (See "D. A. R. Lineage Book," Vol. II., National Number, 1034.)

Mrs. Catharine Wilfong Danley, Bryn Mawr, Pa. (Daughter of John Wilfong, of Lower Merion township, Montgomery Co., Pa., and Ann Conrad, his wife. John Wilfong was the last surviving Revolutionary pensioner in Lower Merion. His name appears in the Census of 1840. He was then 80 years old. Mrs. Danley died in 1901, aged 99.)

Miss Kate Scheetz, Mill Creek, Lower Merion, Pa. (Last survivor, in Lower Merion, of the famous family of papermakers. She was the daughter of Francis Scheetz and Catharine Sibley, his wife, married October 18, 1796. Francis Scheetz was the son of Benjamin Scheetz, patriot, who made paper at the old "Dove Mill" for the U. S. Government, and who served in the Lower Merion Militia. Catharine Sibley, his wife, was the daughter of Rudolph Sibley, who also served in the Lower Merion Militia. The name of Benjamin Scheetz appears on the List of Taxables for Lower Merion, 1774, 1779, 1780, 1782, 1783. Francis Scheetz, son of Benjamin, was born 1764. He assisted his father in the manufacture of government paper. Francis was one of the founders of the Lower Merion Baptist Church. His wife, Catharine, dressed Secretary Charles Thomson for burial. Kate, the youngest daughter of Francis and Catharine Scheetz, died in 1896, aged 80. Miss Scheetz and Mrs. Danley are buried in adjoining lots in Lower Merion Baptist Cemetery.)

Mrs. Charlotte Goodell, Mantua, Ohio. (Wife of Carlton Goodell. Daughter of Samuel Sanford, Jr., who was born in Milford, Conn., 1766; died in the "Western Reserve," Ohio, 1858. At the age of ten, Samuel Sanford, Jr., served with his father, Capt. Samuel Sanford, and lived to receive a pension. See National Number, 13,121, in "Lineage Book," Vol. XIV; and National Number, 16,004, in Vol. XVII. Charlotte, daughter of Samuel Sanford, Jr., was born in Plymouth, Conn., 1812.)

George Paschall, sergeant in the Virginia Dragoons during the Revolution, had a daughter living in 1896. His great-grandson, Walter Paschall, was a member of the Capital Society, Children of the American Revolution. See American Monthly Magazine, January, 1896, page 106.

The present writer tried to have the following-named old ladies admitted as members of the National Society, D. A. R.:

Mrs. Mary Vollum Nixon, of Bryn Mawr, Pa. She believed that her father, Henry Vollum, served as a drummer boy in Virginia. Mrs. Nixon was his youngest child, and was born in Philadelphia. All her brothers and sisters were born in Virginia. Her application-papers were sent to Washington, but her record could not be verified. She died about 1903, aged 102.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wonderly. She died in the Methodist Home for the Aged, West Philadelphia, September 21, 1911. She had said that her father, the Rev. Mr. Walker, a Methodist minister, in early life served as a Revolutionary soldier from Smyrna, Delaware. Her application-papers were sent to Washington twice, but her record could not be verified. She died at the age of 108 years and 4 months.

On April 23, 1906, on motion of Mrs. William Lawson Peel, the Fifteenth Continental Congress voted to pension all "Real Daughters" in need. The United States Congress has the power to pension the children of Revolutionary soldiers, and has already granted pensions to some; but it requires special legislation in every case. This means delay; and while waiting, some "Real Daughters" have suffered and died before aid could reach them. The National Society, D. A. R., can act immediately.

At the Nineteenth Continental Congress, held in Continental Memorial Hall, April, 1910, Mrs. William Lawson Peel, Chairman of the National Committee on "Real Daughters," made the suggestion that a portrait bust of Mrs. Mary Hammond Washington, the "First Real Daughter," be placed in the National Society's Library, as a memorial to a class of members fast disappearing; which class, in the very nature of things, can never be recruited. The work will be carried out. The bust of white marble, is progressing in the hands of one of the finest sculptors in Florence, Italy.

The "Continental Congress" is the annual meeting of the N. S. D. A. R. It is held in Washington, D. C., in April of each year, in the week in which falls April 19, the anniversary of the Battle of Lexington. All Chapters send delegates. The "Continental Congress" was formerly held in February.

Among the "Real Daughters" are many cases of two sisters, and several of three. Several cases, also, of half-sisters. There is, at least, one case of first cousins, daughters of young brothers who fought side by side. One, of twin sisters; one, of a twin sister, whose twin brother, a "Real Son," was living. Several cases in which the "Real Daughters" had brothers, "Real Sons," living. One surviving Revolutionary widow had a "Real Son," and another surviving Revolutionary widow had three "Real Daughters."

Every strain of American ancestry is represented:—English, Scotch, Irish, Welsh, Swedish, French, German, Dutch, Italian. Every section of our great land, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. And every sort of Revolutionary patriot, from the diplomat who defied Great Britain to the scout who outwitted the Indian; from the brigadier general, to the girl who knitted stockings, moulded bullets or carried intelligence. Puritan, Patroon, Quaker, Huguenot, Cavalier and Pioneer, all have their daughters enrolled.

Following are the names of all (or nearly all) of the "Real Daughters" regularly admitted to membership in the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution; with their National numbers, their parents' names, the record of their fathers' services, and some additional items.

This paragraph gives only the slightest hint of the great mass of historical and genealogical wealth here gathered.

And what of the "Real Daughters" themselves?

They are the survivors of the first generation of girls who grew up in a republican atmosphere, with their eyes turned forward to higher ideals for themselves and humanity—the very first generation, in all the world, who ever did so.

The history of the "Real Daughters" shows the great pioneer movement westward and southwestward—a movement which never yet has received full justice from the historian's pen.

It shows, also, the great evangelical and missionary movements—which, so far, have received even less justice. The people of the United States are a Christian people. Whatever our faults, we have been religiously and properly trained. And a remnant of the first generation of those so trained, and who, in turn, trained their successors, is with us still.

Then, the tremendous upheaval in behalf of popular education! Among the "Real Daughters" are enrolled early teachers, from the principal of a pioneer "Female Seminary," down to the brave girl who went West to teach in the little school on the prairie.

Then, all the other vast upheavals! Among the "Real Daughters" are the early college woman; the woman journalist; the woman physician; the business woman; the survivors of the first woman suffrage, anti-slavery and temperance societies. There are numerous Civil War nurses and members of the "Woman's Relief Corps."

There are club women and church women, still active. There are wealthy and fashionable women; and, at least, one millionaire philanthropist.

All their biographers unite in lauding the virtues of the "Real Daughters," wherever found. They exhibit the same Christian graces, whether rich or poor. Thrift and industry, exercised by the "Daughters" in early days, have built up happy homes, in which example and precept have trained honorable families. The dear old ladies still cling to the quaint, old-time manners and refinements of life. Many of the same old ladies are adepts in such ancient accomplishments as patch-work and fine embroidery, and take pride in showing specimens of their skill. From antique, mahogany desks come forth sheets of yellowed paper covered with elegant penmanship—or, as it was formerly called, "chirography" and "calligraphy." And, from perfumed boxes, odd little pictures of roses and violets, in water-color—or "aquarelle." From all of which we see that the American lady, as we know her, developed early in our nation's history. The present writer loves the good, old Saxon word "lady," which is here appropriate. It literally means "loaf-giver."

Of course, what is here said of "dear old ladies" applies to those who really are old. The "Real Daughters," who are comparatively young and are still in active life, keep up to the times, in education, dress and custom. Those "Real Daughters," who attended the Continental Congress, even though some of them had white hair, wore just as elegant silks and laces, just as handsome jewelry, as did many other Daughters.

And, it may be added that any one who carefully studies the history of the "Real Daughters" must see that the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is uniting the women and the families of all sections of our great land, as no other single agency ever has done, ever could have done, or ever can do.

Real Daughters

81. Mrs. Mary Anne Hammond Washington, Macon, Georgia. Macon Chapter. Born in Missouri, 1816; died in Georgia, 1901. Widow of James H. R. Washington. Daughter of Col. Samuel Hammond, of Georgia, and Eliza Amelia O'Keefe, his wife. Samuel Hammond was born in Virginia, 1757. Participated in the Battle of Point Pleasant, West Virginia, now generally regarded as the first real battle of the Revolutionary War (October 10, 1774). Served later in North and South Carolina and Georgia. After the war, Col. Hammond was a member of the Georgia Legislature; in 1802, of the Congress of the United States. In 1805 he was appointed Governor of the Territory of Upper Louisiana. While residing at Belleville, near St. Louis, his daughter, Mary Anne, was born. Col. Hammond was a member of the first Constitutional Convention of Missouri. Later, he took up his residence at Augusta, Georgia. He was one of a committee appointed to receive Lafayette on his visit to the Southern city, in 1825, and Mrs. Washington well remembered seeing the great French general. Mary Anne Hammond was married, in 1835, to James H. R. Washington, a relative of General George Washington. Mr. Washington was a banker of Macon, Ga. He was Mayor of the city in 1851; later, a member of the State Legislature. Mrs. Washington was the first "Real Daughter" admitted to the National Society, D. A. R. She organized Macon Chapter—which, after her death, took the name Mary Hammond Washington Chapter. Mrs. Washington herself was the first Chapter Regent. Col. Samuel Hammond died in Georgia, 1843. Mrs. Washington was a charter member, N. S. D. A. R.

54. Mrs. Elizabeth Sinclair Parker Jones, Linden, Md. Born in Virginia, 1803; died in Maryland, 1895. Daughter of Copeland Parker, of Virginia, and Elizabeth Sinclair, his wife. Grand-daughter of Capt. John Sinclair and of Lieut. Nicholas Parker. Charter member. Mrs. Jones did not enter the National Society as a "Real Daughter," but on the record of her two grandfathers, Capt. Sinclair and Lieut. Parker. It was afterwards learned that her father, Copeland Parker, rendered Revolutionary service, and she was awarded the gold souvenir spoon presented by the National Society, D. A. R., to all "Real Daughters." Copeland Parker, father of Mrs. Jones, was appointed by General Washington, surveyor and inspector of the port of Norfolk, Va. He, Copeland, was a brother of Col. Josiah Parker, aid to Washington, and member of the Virginia Convention, 1775. This same Col. Parker's portrait appears in Trumbull's painting of the Battle of Trenton. Copeland Parker was still residing in Norfolk at the time of the outbreak of the War of 1812. Mrs. Jones remembered when her father and his family, including herself, "ran the blockade," escaping at midnight in a small vessel that passed under the very guns of the British fleet in Norfolk harbor. Mrs. Jones was the wife of John Coates Jones, who was a West Point cadet, and who served in the Mexican War. For more than sixty years she resided in her husband's ancestral home, "Clean Drinking Manor," Montgomery Co., Maryland, near Washington, D. C. She was buried on the estate.

192. Mrs. Sarah Halsey Baker, Wyoming, Ohio, near Cincinnati. Born in 1804. Daughter of Capt. Luther Halsey, of New Jersey, and Abigail Foster, his wife. Mrs. Baker was the youngest child of Captain Halsey. He was a student at Princeton College; and entered the army, with his class, led by the President, Dr. Witherspoon; served throughout the Revolutionary War, and was an original member of the Society of the Cincinnati. Lived for a time at Newburgh, N. Y. Sarah Halsey married Nathan Baker; had a daughter, Julia J. Baker, born in Ohio. See "D. A. R. Lineage Book," Vol. I, page 78. Miss Julia J. Baker entered the National Society as a charter member.

345. Mrs. Phebe Dake Cleveland, Springfield, Illinois. Chicago Chapter. Born in New York, 1811; died in Illinois May 23, 1900. Wife of Daniel T. Cleveland. Daughter of Charles Dake, Jr., and Abigail Sherman, his wife. Charles Dake, Jr., was born about 1763. He served in the Revolutionary War, 1779—1783. The name is sometimes spelled Deake. Mrs. Cleveland was an honorary member of the Chapter at Springfield, Ill. Charles Deake, Jr., was a private in Col. Lewis Van Woert's regiment from Albany County, New York. Later, a magistrate. Mrs. Cleveland entered the National Society, D. A. R., as a charter member. She was also a charter member of Chicago chapter.

374. Mrs. Estelle E. Doremus, New York. New York City Chapter. Born in New York. Wife of Prof. R. Ogden Doremus. Daughter of Hubbard Skidmore and Caroline Avery, his second wife. Hubbard Skidmore was born in 1767. At the age of nine years he served at a gun beside his father, Zophar Skidmore, an artillery officer in the Revolutionary army, and carried powder. Later, Hubbard became a dispatch-bearer, and a private soldier. In after years, he was a wealthy ship owner. It was said of him that he was a "scholar, distinguished navigator, philanthropist and patriot." Captain Skidmore married, for his second wife, Miss Caroline Avery, thirty years his junior. Their daughter, Estelle, was the youngest child. In 1850, she was married to Dr. Robert Ogden Doremus, the eminent professor of chemistry. Mrs. Doremus was a woman of great beauty, and a high degree of culture. She was, for years, a leader in New York society, and active in all the educational and philanthropic movements of her day. During the Civil War she was instrumental in organizing the "Sanitary Fair," in aid of the soldiers. In 1876, she raised a fund towards the erection of the "Women's Pavilion" at the Centennial Exposition. In 1892-3, she was devoting her energies to the work of furthering the success of the World's Columbian Exposition. Mrs. Doremus recommended the Princess Eulalia of Spain for membership in the National Society, D. A. R., and presented her with the insignia. The princess was admitted regularly, on the record of her great-great-grandfather, King Carlos III, who aided the struggling Colonies with ships, men and money, and thus rendered material aid to the cause of American independence. At the time of her death (1905) Mrs. Doremus held the office of Honorary Vice President General of the National Society, D. A. R. She was a charter member. She was born May 6, 1830.

467. Mrs. Jane Stevenson Marshall, Washington, D. C. Charter member. Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., 1822; died in Washington, November 17, 1895. Mary Washington Chapter. Wife of Hon. James William Marshall. Daughter of Lieut. George Stevenson, of Pennsylvania, and Maria Barker, his wife. George Stevenson, on May 23, 1777, was promoted from third lieutenant to second lieutenant, First Pennsylvania Regiment, Continental Line. He was born 1760; died 1829. An original member of the Society of the Cincinnati. Dr. Stevenson entertained Lafayette on his visit to Pittsburgh, 1824. Jane Stevenson married Hon. James W. Marshall, then Professor of Languages in Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa. He was sent as Consul to England by President Lincoln, and under President Grant was First Assistant Postmaster General.

495. Miss Hartley Graham, "Louise Home," Martha Washington Chapter. Born in Virginia, 1810; died in Washington, June, 1896. Daughter of Dr. William Graham, of Virginia, and Anne Hartley, his wife. On the 10th of February, 1778, Dr. William Graham, aged 21, joined the First Virginia Regiment as surgeon, serving throughout the war. Miss Graham was reared on an old-time Virginia plantation, and was among those who suffered reverses through the Civil War. In her last years she was tenderly cared for in the home provided for reduced gentlewomen by that eminent philanthropist, Mr. William Wilson Corcoran. Miss Graham was a charter member, N. S. D. A. R.

607. Mrs. Isabella Litchfield Sturtevant, Keene, New Hampshire. Ashuelot Chapter. Born in Vermont, July 4, 1810; living, 1911. Wife of Luther Sturtevant. Daughter of Caleb Litchfield, of Massachusetts, and Betsey Dunbar, his wife. Caleb Litchfield served as a private in the coast guard; in the marines, and in the infantry. He was born May 8, 1760. Served in the expedition against Rhode Island. Mrs. Sturtevant was a charter member of the N. S. D. A. R. She was the youngest of nine children, and before her marriage was a teacher. She is the mother of Gen. John W. Sturtevant, of the Civil War.

697. Mrs. Nancy Malinda Lynde, San Francisco, Cal. Sequoia Chapter. Born in Vermont, February 27, 1795; died in California, February 21, 1895. Widow of Aaron Phipps Lynde. Daughter of John Walker, of Connecticut, and Philey Spencer, his wife. As a bride, Mrs. Lynde greeted Lafayette when he visited her native town, and danced with him at a ball given in his honor. Mrs. Lynde was also the granddaughter of Matthew Walker, who served in the Eleventh Regiment of Connecticut Militia. Nancy Malinda Walker married Aaron P. Lynde, 1822. Mr. Lynde died in 1872, and Mrs. Lynde went to San Francisco. For a number of years after her arrival she taught in the Chinese Mission. She resided with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Lynde Craig (Mrs. Scipio Craig), a well known writer and woman lawyer. Mrs. Lynde was a charter member of the National Society, D. A. R., and also of Sequoia Chapter, San Francisco.

744. Mrs. Helen Elizabeth Hutton Sherwood, Philadelphia. Philadelphia Chapter. Born in Troy, N. Y., 1811; died in Philadelphia, November 16, 1894. Wife of Rev. John Harvey Sherwood. Daughter of Timothy Hutton, and Arietta Smeeds, his second wife. Timothy Hutton served as a private and lieutenant during the Revolution. He was a brother of Col. Christopher Hutton, Second Regiment, New York Militia, member of the Society of the Cincinnati. The Hutton family named the city of Troy. Timothy Hutton afterwards went to New York and named Hutton Street. His residence, turned into a warehouse, is still standing. Mrs. Sherwood was a charter member of the National Society, D. A. R., also of Philadelphia Chapter. Timothy Hutton died in New Jersey.

1121. Mrs. Frances Elizabeth Goodrich, Minneapolis, Minn. Minneapolis Chapter. Born in Massachusetts, 1813; died in Minnesota, September 23, 1893. Widow of David Goodrich. Daughter of Joshua Danforth and Salome Noble, his wife. Joshua Danforth entered the army at the age of 15, as clerk in the company of his father, Capt. Jonathan Danforth. Joshua was at Ticonderoga, Valley Forge and Monmouth; was commissioned paymaster in 1781; with rank of captain. He was an original member of the Society of the Cincinnati from Massachusetts. In 1784, he married Salome Abigail Noble, and settled at Pittsfield, Mass. Held several offices and was a member of the State Legislature. In 1824, he was one of a committee to meet Lafayette at Pittsfield. Mrs. Goodrich was a charter member of Minneapolis Chapter, D. A. R. She had a sister, Mrs. Lucretia Perrin, of Mount Zion, New Hampshire, who was 102 on April 2, 1895.

1138. Mrs. Louisa Rochester Pitkin, Rochester, N. Y. Born in New York, 1810. Widow of William Pitkin. Daughter of Col. Nathaniel Rochester, of North Carolina, and Sophia Beatty, his wife. Hayward, his wife. Samuel Hayward, in 1781, was a soldier in Capt. James Dana's Company, David Waterbury's Battalion, raised for coast defence, and was for several years under Heath's orders on the Westchester, (N. Y.) Line. Samuel Hayward was born 1763; died in 1837.

2781. Mrs. Harriet F. Greene Warren, Wauwatosa, Wis. Milwaukee Chapter. Born in Massachusetts, Dec. 29, 1817; died in Wisconsin, January 28, 1899. Wife of Joseph A. Warren. Daughter of Noah Greene (1761-1833), and Betsey H. Green, his third wife. Noah Greene, of Windsor, Mass., was in the militia service during the Revolutionary War; enlisted at the age of 15. Mrs. Warren was a member of the Woman's Club. She was the daughter of Noah Greene and his third wife, Betsey Harwood, who were married early in 1817, when Noah was 56 years old, and Betsey, 27. Noah Greene was a cousin of General Nathaniel Greene. He, Noah, served with his own father, and younger brother, Henry. Harriet taught school at Windsor and Savoy; then went to Rushville, where her father's brother, Henry, and her own brother resided, and attended Rushville Academy as a pupil. The family moved in 1837, and Harriet again taught. In 1839-40, went to Michigan to visit an aunt and another brother and taught once more. In 1844, she went to visit another brother in Brookfield, Wisconsin, and here met an old acquaintance from her childhood's home, Joseph Warren, a relative of Gen. Joseph Warren, of Bunker Hill fame. Harriet soon became Mrs. Warren.

3098. Miss Tirzah Morgan Parsons, Hartford, Conn. Ruth Wyllys Chapter. Born in Massachusetts, died 1900. Daughter of Israel Parsons (1762-1846), and Mary Marvin, his wife. Israel Parsons, when 16 years old, enlisted as a private, and in 1778, was made superintendent of transportation of provisions for the military posts on the Hudson. He was commissary when Congress adjourned to Princeton, and he received the approval of Washington for successful efforts in furnishing supplies to the army.

3343. Mrs. Sophia Maxwell Van Dolson Andrews, Des Moines, Iowa. Abigail Adams Chapter. Born in Elmira, N. Y., 1829. Daughter of John (Johannes) Van Dolson, of New York (1752-1840), and Elizabeth Carr, of Vermont, his second wife (m. 1811). John Van Dolson was a minute man at the first alarm, and served till the close of the war. He was with Washington that Christmas night, at Trenton, 1776; was at the Surrender of Burgoyne, and the siege of Yorktown. After the war he removed from Fishkill-on-the-Hudson, thence to Elmira, N.
